FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

APRIL 2007: INCEPTION TECHNOLOGIES RELEASE INFINITIME 7.0

Inception Technologies releases the first web 2.0 labor management software;
businesses to save millions

(GLENDALE, Ariz.) – Inception Technologies launches InfiniTime 7.0, the latest software release from the company since InfiniTime 6.0 in December of 2004, which featured an embedded ORACLE Database. InfiniTime 7.0 utilizes a newer, more streamline version of ORACLE with the added benefit of working from a web browser. However, Inception Technologies CEO Fred Schmitthammer wanted to take the browser to a new level.

Today its possible to find browser based applications in the labor management industry, but they fail to deliver in performance and user friendly operation. They use page-loaded technology, which limits the user to doing one thing at a time. This was a main concern during the two-year development, and we addressed it with the inclusion of Web 2.0 technology. Now users of InfiniTime can create reports, edit time cards, send messages and approve vacation time ALL AT ONCE! This in combination with the ORACLE database has resulted in the fastest browser based system available. However, we also realized that speed isn't everything: we also needed to make it user friendly. To accomplish that, our team of programmers worked in conjunction with our graphic design team to create a web interface that looks and feels like a windows application. We even included the ability to right click from inside the application for more options and ease of use. We have been demonstrating the product to current clients and prospective new clients and everyone who has seen it is going crazy over it!

Hundreds of pre-orders are already being shipped with hundreds more expected within the month. First American Title has already received InfiniTime 7.0 and is currently using it to help coordinate the relief and rebuilding of Louisiana since the Katrina disaster.

But Inception Technologies will not stop there. They have already announced that there will be a Server Manager Module which will allow organizations like payroll companies to create and monitor client companies from their home office...in real time! The software has the versatility to be installed either on the companies server, or it can be hosted from Inception Technologies Corporate Office in Glendale Arizona. Currently, Inception Technologies is in talks with over a dozen Payroll Companies who plan to purchase and use InfiniTime 7.0 to monitor and process payroll for many of their current clients.
